the Maria separate in this city last evening, and immediately proceeded to the residence of his friend, Wm. Flinn, esq.
navy agent, whose gnest he is to be during his stay in this city. The news of his arrival soon spread among his numerous friends, and with the Marine Band they in mediately called upon him in a body and gave him a sererade. In addition to the large number of Pennsylvanians present, we noticed among the company Hon. John Appleton, Assistant Secretary of State, Gen. Lane of Oregon, Gov. Stevens, of Washington Territory, and Mayan and his men the unfortunates were furnished ing and everything needful for their comfort— th the kindness of brothers until their arrival

And while regretting the ne cessity that sent Mr. Jones for a time to a foreign shore yet they felt proud that the sagacity of the President had selected such a man to uphold the honor of this country at a European court.

Mr. Jones, being greeted with enthusiastic cheers, re-turned his thanks to his fellow-citizens of the city of Washington for the unexpected honor that they had conferred upon him. It would not be proper, nor was it ex-pected, (he remarked,) that he should make a speech on this occasion ; and were he to attempt it, he should ut terly fail for want of language to express the deep feelings of his heart, and his gratitude for the complimen they had paid him in calling upon him to congratulat him upon the honor recently tendered him by the President of the United States. For the last eight years he had spent about half of his time here; and that was among the happiest periods of his life. Coming among the people of Washington as a stranger nearly eight United States, September 1, 1858...... 102,925 years ago, it had been his pleasure to meet them in social intercourse, to mingle with them in his public public problem. social intercourse, to mingle with them in his pub-lic and private relations, and to cultivate those amicable feelings which contribute so much to the happi ness and enjoyment of life. He felt this to be the proud-est triumph of his life, that, after having spent so much time here, he had been deemed worthy of such an enthusias tie reception as this by those who knew him best. He had simply to say that, whether at home or abroad, whether in the domestic or foreign relations of our government, he should remember the period of his association with the citizens of Washington to the last days of his life He then closed by repeating his acknowledgments and thanking them for the compliment they had paid him. After three hearty cheers had been given for Mr. Jones

Gen. Lane, of Oregon, was loudly called for, and made a few remarks. He said he did not come there to make a speech, but to tender that welcome to Mr. Jones that had brought so many of his hearers to the spot. It had been his fortune to serve with Mr. J. for almost eight years in the House of Representatives; and he was a witless to the fidelity and honesty with which he had there discharged his duties. A LEXANDRIA HIGH SCHOOL.—This institution is a select loarding school for young mon and youth in the city of Alexandria, Virginia. The number of students continues, so if former years, to be limited to an many only as can receive the minute attention of the periodical, it being his desire to combine, as far as practicable, the social and moral advantages of a family with the classification and steatistics of sechool. The periodical brings to his assistance in the pursuit of his profession, the experience of more than twenty years, during which time has been engaged in the instruction of young persons from almost very section of the Union.

A number of important improvements, both at the school and dwelling, have recently been made, such as the erection of an actronomical observatory, the enlargement of the laboratory, addition of recitation rooms, &c.

It would be easy to insert the no-nes of many well-known gentlemen, residing in different parts of the United States, who either have been, or now are, patrons of the school, but the subscriber deem this unsercourty.

Caroliers will be forwarded on application.

VERNON GROVE; or, Hearts as they Arc; a fresh and glowing American fiction by a prominent southern authoress. Elegantly bound in muslin. Price $1. Free by mail, $1 25. Extract from Critique of Southern Literary Messenger.

Extract from Critique of Southern Literary Messenger.

"The authoress of Vernou Grove is one of the finest actions in the country, and this novel is, in our judgment, the best yet produced by an American lady. In the pears of the 'Literary Messenger,' where it has been brought out from meant to month, it has excited universal admiration. In few American fictions has the interest, been maintained with such power, while the style has been uniformly pure, flowing, and correct. Pathon is the quality meat at the writer's command, she possesses the key which 'opes the scarced source of synapathetic tears, and it must be sufter a hopebessly prousic or a most inscussible person up to gan takew the fortines of the charming 'Spill Gray' without feeling occosionally a moisture gathering about the cyclids. The incident of Eva's blundness is narrated with wonderful and starting maintainess, and affects the reader more, we think, than the sandar occurrence in the case of Mariel, in 'Join Haiffer, Jointonan'. It is to be regretted that 'Yornon Grove,' which was critical before the appearance of Mass Milock's well known novel, had not also appeare debure it, so that all imputation of plagarism might have been avoided. We congraphate the puffichers on having one of the meet stirring and successful works of detion which the country has yet produced.
